Steve Seidel HARVARD

Project Zero

Steve Seidel is the director of Harvard Project Zero and the Arts in Education Program at HGSE. Project Zero's mission is to understand and enhance learning, thinking, and creativity in the arts, as well as humanistic and scientific disciplines, at the individual and institutional levels.

Judith McLaughlin HARVARD

An Education of Value

Judith Block McLaughlin's work focuses on leadership and governance in higher education. As educational chair of the Harvard Seminar for New Presidents and the Harvard Seminar for Experienced Presidents, she has had the pleasure of working with over 1000 college and university presidents.

Pamela Mason HARVARD

Language and Literacy

Pamela A. Mason is director of the Language and Literacy Master's program and the Jeanne Chall Reading Lab, and a lecturer on education at the Harvard Graduate School of Education.

Kay Merseth HARVARD

Windows on Teaching

Katherine Merseth's work concentrates on charter schools, teacher education, mathematics education, and the case-method of instruction.

Lee Teitel HARVARD

Technology and Leadership

Lee Teitel teaches courses on leadership development, on partnership and networking, and on understanding organizations and how to improve them. He was the founding director and is currently faculty senior associate of an innovative multi-school effort that focuses on bringing high quality teaching and learning to scale in urban and high need districts.

Katherine Boles HARVARD

To Upgrade School, Upgrade Teachers

A classroom teacher for over 25 years, Katherine Boles writes and teaches about school reform, teacher education, and new forms of teacher leadership

Joseph Blatt HARVARD

The Effects of Media and Technology

Joe Blatt is interested in the effects of media content and technology on development, learning, and civic behavior. His courses span both formal and informal settings.

Catherine Elgin HARVARD

Education and Advancement

Catherine Elgin is a philosopher whose areas of study include the theory of knowledge, philosophy of art, and philosophy of science. Recent work considers the question of what makes something cognitively valuable.

David Kahle HARVARD

Design Studio

J David Kahle serves on the faculty of the Harvard Graduate School of Education teaching courses on the design and development of online learning environments and educational software design. His research and development activities focus on the design of information systems and cognitive tools that support increased access to and comprehension of digital information.

Ilona Holland HARVARD

Development of Computer Based Programs

Ilona Holland has been involved in the evaluation of technology-based educational products since 1989. Both as an independent consultant and as a senior research consultant with Multimedia Research, a consulting group headed by Barbara Flagg, Holland has worked on projects for museums, television stations, software companies, and the DuPont Company.

Boston Educational Conference

BY SUBWAY

Green Line to Copley Station.

Orange Line to Back Bay/South End Station. Walk down Dartmouth Street to Copley Square.

BY CAR

Interstate 93 (from north or south) Take Storrow Drive exit. Take Copley Square exit off of Storrow Drive. The exit deadends at a signal light. The cross street is Beacon. Take a right on Beacon Street. While on Beacon Street, you will cross Berkeley, Clarendon, and Dartmouth Streets. The next street is Exeter. Take a left onto Exeter (it is a one-way street). While on Exeter, you will cross Marlborough Street, Commonwealth Avenue, and Newbury Street. The next cross street is Boylston. The Library is on the corner of Exeter and Boylston Streets.

Mass Pike (Interstate 90) Come all the way into the city on the Mass Pike. Take the Copley Square exit (the sign will read: Prudential Center, Copley Square). The exit road will split, follow the Copley Square (right) lane. You will exit the tunnel onto Stuart Street. You will be on the right hand side of the street. Move to the lane furthest left. Take the left at the next light, Dartmouth Street (approximately 500 feet from the tunnel exit). The Library is on the left of Dartmouth Street, after the next light (approximately 500 feet).
